

Get Involved

with the

NC King Tides Project

Snap the shore See the Future

 The North Carolina King Tides Project is a citizen science initiative to photograph high water events.

 If you spot flooding or high water levels, take photos and send them to us! (Just make sure it's safe out!)

 These photos allow us to visualize what sea levels might look like in the future and help improve community planning efforts.

Submit your photos on our website:

NCKingTides.web.unc.edu

nckingtides@gmail.com